Joanne Myers

Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario (ETFO)

This presentation provides participants with essential, practical ideas for developing and delivering TLLP workshops that are engaging and motivating for adult learners. The important balance between theory and practical strategies is addressed, as is the need for creating a comfortable, respectful learning environment. The workshop actively explores strategies for delivering workshop content in a passionate, meaningful manner.

This carousel will provide more detailed answers than is possible in the Learning from Experience sessions. Bring your questions about navigating through the process, issues with technology and timing, and preparing for the Summit. The teams who lead this workshop will answer from their own experience, including bringing a sample Summit display and sharing tips on further steps such as embarking on the Provincial Knowledge Exchange (PKE). They will also facilitate group discussion of each project team's situation with an eye to problem solving for you in advance.

Facilitator

This session is designed for participants who are already somewhat familiar with digital tools and would like to consider the tools that most effectively enable collaboration online (e.g., Padlet, blogs, wikis, Twitter, Google tools, Office 365, Mindomo, TeachOntario). We'll share what we've found to be the most effective platforms and methods for online collaboration and provide you with a comprehensive set of resources so you can explore, experiment, ask questions and share with the rest of your team.

Bring your own device as we explore TeachOntario < <https://www.teachontario.ca> >, a vibrant online community created by TVO in partnership with OTF and the Ministry of Education. In this “hands on” and “how to” session you will have the opportunity to create your own TLLP project group and connect with educators from across the province as you begin your TLLP learning journey.

Working With Your Team: Making Conflict Productive

English

Thursday

Scott

Rosemary Judd-Archer

Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF)

Bring your conflicts here! Participants will be provided with proven tips and skills to deal with existing and potential conflicts in their teams and in their schools, and then use those strategies to work with actual situations posed by other participants.

Windsor

Marilyne Guèvremont

Association des enseignantes et des enseignants franco-ontariens (AEFO)

Partager les nouvelles connaissances acquises fait partie intégrante du PALPE. Cet atelier vous offrira des trucs et astuces pour la préparation de rapports, articles et présentations orales afin de vous appuyer dans le partage de vos trouvailles. Nous vous offrirons également des conseils pour une gestion efficace de votre projet.

Ce carrousel vous donnera des réponses plus approfondies qu'il est possible de recevoir durant « Tirer de son expérience : si j'avais su ». Apporter vos questions telles que comment naviguer dans le processus, quels sont les problèmes technologiques et combien de temps faut-il prendre, comment se préparer au colloque? Les équipes qui mèneront cet atelier tireront les réponses de leur propre expérience, démontreront un échantillon de leurs présentations au colloque et ils partageront des idées sur la façon d'aller plus loin par exemple comment contribuer à l'Échange provincial des connaissances (ÉPC).

Ian Pettigrew

Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF)

Join me as we experience the art and science of facilitating professional learning sessions for, and with, our peers and colleagues. Together, we'll explore and experience, in an engaging, hands-on, and interactive way, practical, research-informed and experience-based protocols and strategies that you can harness in your own work with colleagues.
