

THE GOALS
MUST CHANGE

A person is holding a lit sparkler, with bright sparks emanating from the tip. The person's face is partially visible in the background, and they are wearing a dark, textured garment. The overall scene is dimly lit, with the sparkler providing the primary light source.

What is a Global Citizen?

There is no universally accepted definition of global citizenship – it can mean different things to different people.

Global citizenship is...

- ...understanding that we belong to the same world
- ...making decisions based on the good of everyone, not just ourselves
- ...not limiting our concern to national boundaries
- ...having something to contribute to make the world a better place

The more global citizens there are, and the more active and effective they are, the more progress the world will make.

Bill Gates, Founder of Microsoft

When you look at our planet from the heights achieved by astronauts, you see that there are no borders, no limits, no disconnect between countries or people, and therefore no disconnect between ideas.

- David Johnston, 28th Governor General of Canada

Because, in the end, we're all part of one tribe – the human tribe. And no matter who we are, or where we come from, or what we look like, or who we love, or what God we worship, we are connected. Our fates are bound up with one another.

- Barack Obama, 44th President of the United States of America

All things are connected like the blood that unites us. We did not weave the web of life, we are merely a strand in it. Whatever we do to the web, we do to ourselves.

- Chief Seattle, c.1786-1866, leader of the Suquamish People
