Joanne Myers

Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario (ETFO)

This presentation provides participants with essential, practical ideas for developing and delivering TLLP workshops that are engaging and motivating for adult learners. The important balance between theory and practical strategies is addressed, as is the need for creating a comfortable, respectful learning environment. The workshop actively explores strategies for delivering workshop content in a passionate, meaningful manner.

This workshop will provide more detailed answers than is possible in the Learning from Experience sessions. Bring your questions about navigating through the process, issues with technology and timing, and preparing for the Summit. The teams who lead this workshop will answer from their own experience, including bringing a sample Summit display and sharing tips on further steps such as embarking on the Provincial Knowledge Exchange (PKE). They will also facilitate group discussion of each project team's situation with an eye to problem solving for you in advance.

This session is designed for participants who are already somewhat familiar with digital tools and would like to consider the tools that most effectively enable digital sharing and collaboration (e.g. Google Tools, Twitter, blogging, iTunes U, Office 365, and apps such as Spark Page, Spark Video, Flipgrid and Tellagami). We'll share what we've found to be the most effective platforms and methods for online collaboration and sharing, and provide you with opportunities to explore tools and determine which ones will work best for your team.

Ready, Set, Go! The Art and Science of Facilitating Effective Interactions...with Colleagues

Ian Pettigrew

Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF)

I invite you to join me as we explore both the art and science of facilitating professional learning sessions for, and with, our teacher colleagues. Throughout the session, you'll experience a variety of practical strategies and protocols which you can apply in your own TLLP work...and, yes, even adapt for your students. Oh, and just so you know...this won't be "sit-and-get PD", so get ready to "learn by doing."

Getting Started with TeachOntario @teachontario.ca

Leah Kearney

TVOntario

Albert Wisco

TVOntario

Bring your own device as we explore TeachOntario < <https://www.teachontario.ca> >, a vibrant online community created by TVO in partnership with OTF and the Ministry of Education. In this "hands on" and "how to" session you will have the opportunity to create your own TLLP project group and connect with educators from across the province as you begin your TLLP learning journey.

Working With Your Team: Making Conflict Productive

Cet atelier vous donnera des réponses plus approfondies qu'il est possible de recevoir durant « Tirer de son expérience : si j'avais su ». Apporter vos questions telles que comment naviguer dans le processus, quels sont les problèmes technologiques et combien de temps faut-il prendre, comment se préparer au colloque? Les équipes qui mèneront cet atelier tireront les réponses de leur propre expérience, démontreront un échantillon de leurs présentations au colloque et ils partageront des idées sur la façon d'aller plus loin par exemple comment contribuer à l'Échange provincial des connaissances (ÉPC).
